(Willcox/Darlow)

I'll serve you well, be your western girl
Tailored, silent, the oyster and the pearl Soft young flesh, master's so mean He's shackled my ankles, his ropes burn my waist
When you chase me, I fall and graze my face Blood flakes like pancake, leaves a tattoo My image in the mirror is branded by you remain so you suffer the pleasures of my pain Watashini Makasete
Watashini Makasete
I'll serve you well, be your western girl
You must do as you please
Pass judgement, I kneel before you
Your pleasure, my punishment
I'll serve you well, I'm only here to please
If you leave me chained to the bed tonight
When you've finished, leave on the light
The boards are so cold, I miss the soft sheets love you so dearly, I'll never leave

I'll serve you well, be your western girl
You must do as you please
Pass judgement, I kneel before you
Your pleasure, my punishment
I'll serve you well, I'm only here to please Dressed to kill, I'll serve you well Keep my voice to a whisper Never raise my eyes, avoid your glare Tread so lightly, I'll only be there When you want me to be
If the need arises, you must punish me
If I'm slow, you're intolerant, you do as you please
If you want me at your table, i'll kiss your feet Prepare your feast, I'll do anything to please It's all because you love me, you want me to learn My eyes are your eyes, when others take their turn Then when you wash me, in your eyes I can tell The tables have turned and you serve me well

pray before you on my knees (I'll serve you well)
pray before you on my knees
(I'll be your western girl)
pray before you on my knees
(I'll serve you well)
pray before you on my knees
(I'll be your western girl)
pray before you on my knees
(I'll serve you well)
pray before you on my knees
pray before you on my knees
pray before you on my knees
