(Willcox / Bogen / Bush)

She reaches out to hold him tight
"Don't worry, love. I'll be your sight."
A smile appears, he's so polite
His mind's at work in the dark of night

But when the bullet hit his eyes
He never worried - "Oh, you should've heard her cry!"
He's always ready to take in her lies
But now the time has come, let's say goodbye

Goodbye.

He points the knife between her eyes
It's light reflects on the one he despises
Here's one for the pain, here's one for the lies
When blood flows out I watch her say "goodbye."

But when the bullet hit his eyes
He never worried - "Oh, you should've heard her cry!"
He's always ready to take in her lies
But now the time has come, let's say goodbye

Goodbye
I love you
I want you dear

Goodbye, Goodbye,
Goodbye, Goodbye, Goodbye, Goodbye, I love you,
Goodbye dear
I needed you and I've used you
Goodbye, dear

Goodbye
I love you
I want you dear
