You come into the threshold of another starless night of fear

You're running from the demons that would drag you down again

Illusions of the world are spinning out of time and frame and synchronicity

You're so sad

You're such a sad-eyed girl

You're so sad in your sub-plot

Chorus:

What is this, what is this, this mess of my existence is

All these politics of life and death and relevance

It's my existence

Another morning it comes running up your bedpost with the wind

You face yourself just like you always do, time and time again

The mortal coil of image, inner peace and satisfaction

And so you keep it on the down-low

Hiding all the secrets that are down below

And so you keep it on the down-low

Tell me baby was it worth it all

Chorus

Oh just take it all, make it work and make some sense

Just take it all,

You're my existence

You're my existence
