How does it feel
to take the blame
to be behind the drain because you take what you can get and ask for more you never get what you deserve and thats the score remember that the life you save may be your own but when youre bankrupt you wont get another loan I hope that youll accept my sympathy but understand I gotta think its better him than me its better him than me a chain is just as strong as its weakest link when you endure the strain its always later than you think its later than you think resign to a life of chronic cellibacy with fond memories and cheap pornography god forbid I ever wanted intamacy no more, that out out of the door god forbid I should feel I know that aint real but now I feel like I could rape a nun and its always the first kiss that gets you drunk that gets you drunk
so I keep a habit on her face while I listen to that Yes song Yours is no disgrace
mine is no disgrace
no, no disgrace
ah, ah, ah, ah, ah
to fade away
to be beneath the train the life disguised behind the backward mask a little dignity is all I ask many people cross the beach and leave no trace well Im hoping for my footprints to remain

Yours is no disgrace
mine is no
