Take a look over your shoulder wise words get much older life has a way of humbling you down thought you already knew took a turn then you blew it life has way of humbling you down so i think i already know everything so i think there ain't room to grow anything ooh life humbles you down as i stare at the ceiling in an abandoned building life had a way of knocking me around in my children still look up to me while their stomachs on empty oh i need a angel to fall on me now so i thought i already know everything so i thought there wasn't room to grow anything oh life humbled you down humbled you down

oh life has a way of humbling you down humbles you down ooh life has a way of humbling you down just when i thought that i knew (oh just when i thought i knew it all i knew i knew i thought i knew it all) there was a lesson in store (there was a lesson in store for me) changed my whole world know i know (changed my whole world know i know i know i know i dont know it all) there's always room left to grow (see there's always room left to grow there's always room left to grow ooh woo ooh life had a way of humbling me humbling me back down on my knees

just when i thought that i knew...inaudible
