gone...it didn't last too long no lack of trying on our part as i was saying to the others it's a miracle we try anything at all you pour your heart out knowing full well

it could fail, fail, fail but how could we know back then? it's a rare old grail, pricelessly to fail older sins cast longer shadows when we watch them fade and die it's a lovely day in sunlight's golden ray but that just slips away - isn't it a shame and it's cold now at night and i hear your name calling me back through the days your a rare old flame, burning bright again all those things that we shared matter now i just can't say goodbye do i have to try?

honey, it's no crime to lose your way everyone, in their turn, gets to fail well how could we know back then? such a rare old grail, (pricelessly) to fail older sins cast longer shadows

it's a miracle
