What's going on, cause theres something very wrong and I cant seem to understand my problems now Do I see through you, or has a clouded point of view become the basis on which I have learned to speculate

And though I know that I have struggled in this understanding
I've come to learn that I cant live this on my own

When its said and done, will I've lost or will I've won in this battle that I cant stop fighting now Cause I'm falling down, but as it crumbles all around I think I realize that my hope is just a prayer away

Just the other day I saw so clearly that, one life can leave its mark
And so I'm wondering, if I would die today, would I have done my part
