Painted Bride

In glowing color
Wrapped so neat and tight
Set safe aside
How do you know the heart
When all you ever see is a mesmerizing scene
I'll wait for you
I know the truth has always been so incomplete
What you hide is what we need
The secret you see its one that we can never keep

Do you want me to know
Is it already growing from inside
Giving us this restless life
Just how do I tell which way it will fall this time
When all you see is a painted bride

You've taken over
All that I'm to be is all so perfectly unkind
Mosaic color
The hue will start to fade
Cast a subtle shade on me

I'll wait for you I know the truth has always been so incomplete
What you hide is what we need
The secret you see is one that we can never keep

Do you want me to know
Is it already growing from inside
Giving us this restless life
Just how do I tell which way it will fall this time
When all you see is a painted bride
