Symptom of My Time

I'm just a symptom of my time
Just a victim of my mind Turning deaf and dumb and blind, cause I need to I'm inescapably obsessed, with the thoughts I have repressed
Want to lay it all to rest, wanna come to

I, I still think that love can save me
I, wonder where it has been lately

So I walk on by Letting go the fear
and the day it comes
and the sky is clear
So I walk on by
and I'm right on line
I have got to be more than a symptom of my time

I read another magazine, see the star I've never been Life is nowhere in between all these pages
I buy a promise in a jar, try and cover up my scars
Make my way into these wide open spaces

I, I still think that love can save me
I, wonder where it has been lately

So I walk on by Letting go the fear
and the day it comes
and the sky is clear
So I walk on by
and I'm right on line
I have got to be more than a symptom of my time
