People offer from all sides,
Suggestions and their lies
You're stumbling through your doubt,
Just want an easy out
Cause you're screaming on your knees inside
Yeah, you've been through storms before,
But this one's got you on the floor
You know you should get up,
But you don't want to trust
Love left you broken, bruised and sore.

It gets worse before it gets better,
Sometimes hearts will change just like the weather
Scars will fade, it won't be much longer,
When your heart breaks, it gets stronger,
Stronger

And there is nothing left for you to lose
That wouldn't be good for you
Love can bring you down, it can pull you through
Sometimes the pain's good for you

You thought you'd had all you could take,
But God held you, you didn't break
Arms wide open now,
Nothing can hold you down.
But memories come and you start to ache

It gets worse before it gets better,
Sometimes hearts will change just like the weather
Scars will fade, it won't be much longer,
When your heart breaks, it gets stronger,
Stronger

And there is nothing left for you to lose
That wouldn't be good for you
Love can bring you down, it can pull you through
Sometimes the pain's good for you

Don't be so hard on yourself,
It takes strength to ask for help

All these sorrows you have known
Are turning into beautiful stepping stones

In a crowd you're still alone,
It's emptiness that fills your bones
Hope's a rare disease,
Catch it and you will see
You could feel love like you've never known

It gets worse before it gets better,
Sometimes hearts will change just like the weather
Scars will fade, it won't be much longer,
When your heart breaks, it gets stronger,
Stronger

And there is nothing left for you to lose
That wouldn't be good for you
Love can bring you down, it can pull you through
Sometimes the pain's good for you
This time the pain's good for you.
