There's a shimmering reflection
That the wind blows on down the river
I've tried to keep my distance from the illusion
But the image of you will last in my mind forever.

You're a reflection of days gone by
You are the promise that the future will try.

I'm waiting for the moment to see you
I listen for your voice, it fills my thoughts and leads me back to you.

Although once weary, I find myself becoming strong
You've made me happy for so long.

Searching for a trace of you
And when the search is over
The moment will be yours and mine.
