Bright and burning blue,
Stretch your arms out above me
I know that you still love me like you did

Copper brown and orange red
Burn the words that I never said
I'm swallowing the pill

If you see me grinning it's a disguise
If you see me grinning don't trust my lies
When the ink dries we'll have another masterpiece
When the drink dies we'll have another restless sleep
again

The smell is so thick that I can taste it
It stains so bad I'll never erase it Stains so bad we'll never erase it

Try; try again and again it falls flat
Fall rolling in and I can't find my hat
I can't find my hat

If you see me grinning it's a disguise
If you see me grinning don't trust my lies
When the ink dries we'll have another masterpiece
When the drink dies we'll have another restless sleep
again

A magic dream haver,
An abracadaver,
Use your mind over matter 'til there's nothing the matter

A magic dream haver,
An abracadaver,
Use your mind over matter 'til there's nothing the matter at all
At all

These columns are calmly calming me down
The white stripe of light from the sky to the ground

It's the biggest most obvious red flag,
And it's waving away in the wind
And nobody sees the clouds or the trees,
Only the dust and the fire within
