As a child I was told that I was destined to be nothing Growing wild as I got older I fulfilled what had been said Hiding ignorance and fear I prayed nobody saw me bluffing
But I was laying the foundation for a future I would dread, yeah

Seems like every choice I made would somehow leave me second-guessing
'Bout the green grass I was passing racing toward the other side
I thank God, for the blessing that I finally learned this lesson
One step in the right direction's worth a wasted mile behind

Singin', "No more lookin' over my shoulder
No more hangin' on to the past
No more filling up my tomorrows
With yesterday's sorrows
No more lookin' over my shoulder"

I could chill a room with reasons why I would not give forgiveness
To the people who had selfishly left me a wounded soul I kept dragging 'round those memories like a ball and chain behind me Wonderin' why my troubles followed me wherever I would go

Oh, but one night, sick and tired of being sick and tired
I realized forgiveness was the only open road I swear I heard those shackles snap the moment that I took that path
I never have one time looked back since the morning I arose

Singin', "No more lookin' over my shoulder
No more hangin' on to the past
No more filling up my tomorrows
With yesterday's sorrows

No more lookin' over my shoulder"

Hey, yeah, yeah

I'm singin', "No more lookin' over my shoulder
No more hangin' on to the past
No more filling up my tomorrows
With yesterday's sorrows
No more, no more, no"

No more lookin' over my shoulder
No more hangin' on to the past
No more filling up my tomorrows
With yesterday's sorrows
No more lookin' over my shoulder
