It's the same thing, the same dream every time You're running in a straight line, speeding through the light
And you're stronger than you've ever been
In a place you've never seen and everything is right

Something calling, something's haunting you
And you want it, and you want it

It's all about to change, nothing stays the same
It's getting closer every single day
It's all about to change, it'll never be the same
Any day now, you will start again

And you wake, a stranger to your bed
But science tells your head that nothing looks the same in the light
And your day's spent looking for the dream
Is it going to come again? Could anything be so bright?

Hear it calling, all day long
And you want it, and you want it

It's all about to change, nothing stays the same
It's getting closer every single day
It's all about to change, it'll never be the same
Any day now, you will start again

Don't you wanna go, don't you wanna go?
It's the same thing, everytime

It's all about to change, nothing stays the same
It's getting closer every single day
It's all about to change, it'll never be the same
Any day now, you will start again

It's all about to change, it'll never be the same
Any day now, you will start again

Well, everything you know and everything that you believe
Far away, far away
