Well, if you're living on the bottom of the ocean you had better keep your fingernails clean. You say you're living on the top of a mountain, well son, I find that very hard to believe. I would rather you reside deep inside of a body tangerine where they would find you less than ordinary. I would rather you reside on the side of an unmarked submarine where they would find you just a little scary. So now you're living on the bottom of the ocean, well I hope you're not living your dream. Son, you tell me you're destined for motion, but I'm not sure that I know what you mean.
