Do you remember the daydream where we rolled on down the hilltop as you asked me to take your blood?
You're telling me you are pregnant and dropping out of school but all you want is a picture of yourself. Do you remember the skyline as it turned around the windows as you asked me if we were dead? I said I wouldn't respond because you wouldn't like the answer so I sang a song instead. So if you want to see a light, you'll have to see some shadows, unless you have an empty room. Then someone tell me, why does it matter?
