the walls are awfully white awfully bright today round and round the same old town countless ways

nothings changed

tonight's the night
that we launch our fight at this pointless tour known as life and in the end maybe we will mend, but until then

nothings changed

you see me talking to myself you think I'm talking for my health but no I'm talking for my wealth I having visions of the truth strange understandings of my youth you see me looking at the sun I'm looking for the one the only answer to this quest that I'm on today

but nothings changed

pocket change
