I know i'll never see you
I know i'll never run into your body walking through the crooked streets
I know i'll never hear you I know i'll never hear you like a sound that wafts inside from outside there I know that if i waited i know that if i wait a thousand days will lie wasted with thoughts of you My love i've pictured this:
Your violet eyelids opened to say "here's where you've been"
Your lips open to say "my darling it's been so very long and i'm in pain"
I know i'll never feel you
I know i'll never get so close to you that i can't smell anything else
I know that where you go i'll still be far from where you are
My love i've pictured this:
Your violet eyelids opened to say "here's where you've
and i'm in pain" sometimes i picture all your fingers Sometimes they're crawling down my spine
Sometimes they're buttoning your jacket
Sometimes you're far but you're still mine
I know that it is raining
And i know that the rain will soak you through And leave you like the tattered sky
I know i go in circles
I know that window panes bring only rain and not your face
Sometimes i picture all your fingers
Sometimes they're crawling down my spine
Sometimes they're buttoning your jacket
Sometimes you're far but you're still mine
I know that it is raining and I know that the rain will soak you through and leave you like the tattered sky
I know i go in circles
I know that window panes bring only rain and not your

face
