

Trevor Hall "Beautiful Lunatic"

Visit "Beautiful Lunatic" on MotoLyrics.com

Taste this peace
It will make you weak in the knees
Make you want to plant unity with all your apple seeds
We're going to mix a mixture to create a portrait picture
Organic natural visions that will taste real sweet Traveling bhodisattvas transform madness into an opera
Oh the sky is falling but there is plenty of room to breath
A moonshine conspiracy the beauty it brings joy to me
All this untapped energy it makes me feel so free

With the stars out
We got everything that can save us
With my window down
I've found my way to my haven

I'm a beautiful lunatic
A howl at the moon until the lunar eclipse
And I sip from the wine my father gave me
I'm willing to take all this pain from my feet
I've walked everywhere in these shoes looking for you
Following the stars above following the scent of love
It's all true it's all true
I'm just an orphan of the sky
Who and what and when and why
There's no proof there's no proof

On this plain
Everything is rearranged
See we co exist with love and that will never ever change
Well the grass grows when the music flows
Don't you know this feeling will put you right at home
The connection not to mention it has such a good intention
The spider met the blossom well he showed so much affection
Oh my friends I send you my good prayers
If you ever need a lift to heaven you can take my stairs

