Here I am once again
Where's the meaning and purpose?
I let it slip away into nothing
So I'll ask you once again
To use me and fill me with the joy I can't muster on my own
I'm learning what its like to die on the outside
And become much more alive than ever before on the inside
I've been losing my touch with my world I'm in
And that's ok but anyway

I'm learning how to live again
I'm feeling so alive
I know I have to lose my life to gain it
And you brought me here to show me how to live again
And I'm ready this time to lose the things
That wear me out and scar me on the inside
I'm learning how to live again

You were dying to clue me in
But I was running surroundly with my eyes closed and my hands over my ears
But you found me again and you loved me and changed me
I never want to turn around again
I'm learning what its like to die on the outside
And become more alive than I've ever been

I'm learning how to live again
I'm feeling so alive
I know I have to lose my life to gain it
And you brought me here to show me how to live again
And I'm ready this time to lose the things
That wear me out and scar me on the inside
I'm learning how to live again

There goes the life I thought I knew
I'm alive here. I'm alive here
Start over this is my debut
I'm alive now more than ever

I'm learning how to live again
I'm feeling so alive
I know I have to lose my life to gain it
And you brought me here to show me how to live again
And I'm ready this time to lose the things
That wear me out and scar me on the inside
I'm learning how to live again
