To any life gone out
To many, the fight starts now
We're staring at a nice turn out

No we can not back down
To many, the rock's stuck now
We're looking at the right start out

Wake up the neighbours house
Make up the neighbours house

We should have know better than to leave on the lights
Just started our endeavor
But it's never too late
You battle with grace
You need to lead another life
We battle for the world for once, and not about a war

Wake up the neighbours house [x5]
To any life gone out,
To many, the fight starts now
We're staring at a nice turn out

The world is a face
No black and white
The freedom we taste
Throughout the fight

We should have know better than to leave on the lights
Just started our endeavor
But it's never too late
You battle with grace
You need to lead another life
We battle for the world for once, and not about a war.
