you've got nowhere to run but you've got everywhere to hide so close so many times before the rug pulled beneath me as i lie here on this floor it doesn't matter anymore anymore anymore

only in dreams can i truly be free this story it's old with time i'd spill my heart for you, it's on my sleeve why don't you give me one reason why maybe you think some things are

it's easy, it's obvious
but silent are
my loudest words
and nowhere is
the farthest place i'll see

so close so many times before
