

Anthrax

"Think About an End"

Visit "Think About an End" on MotoLyrics.com

Wake up on fire everyday
And I never say good-bye
Pre-determined destiny
I've never been afraid to die, mmm

Ever since I was a kid
I've seen things my own way with my own eyes
With my hands I turn the screws
In my life I decide

You're bent under the will of endless dogmatic restraints
I will rage against the machine spewing out blind faith

Think about an end you can live with
Think about an end I can give you
Think about an end that will satisfy

Think about an end you can live with
Think about an end I can give you
Think about an end

The only thing that's touched my soul
Ever in my life is love
Tangible and psychical, visible
Unlike your god above

You're bent under the will of endless dogmatic
restraints
I will rage against the machine spewing out blind faith

Think about an end you can live with
Think about an end I can give you
Think about an end that will satisfy

Think about an end you can live with
Think about an end I can give you
Think about an end

Where is all the mercy on which your faith has been built
All I see is hatred caused by years of inbred guilt

Yeah

Resurrecting genuflecting killing in the name
You disavow the right to choose
It's mediievally insane

Your God is dead and doesn't care
Tell me which one's worst
An uncaring God or knowing
That you're alone on this earth? Yeah

Wake up on Wake up on Wake up on
Wake up on

Wake up on fire everyday
And I never say good-bye
Pre-determined destiny
I've never been afraid to die

You're bent under the will of endless dogmatic
restraints
I will scream with rage

Think about an end you can live with
Think about an end I can give you
Think about an end that will satisfy

Think about an end you can live with
Think about an end I can give you
Think about an end

Think about an end
Think about an end
Think about an end
Think about and end
Think about and end

Visit Anthrax page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.