she has a heart
that belongs in rooms
for people like me
to stare and look into

beautiful and real
more real than me
i only wish i had the lungs to swim that deep

it's not just one
moment or phrase
that makes it crumble
i swear i could almost taste it just outside of reach right in front of me

i've built these walls
higher than i should but each brick that's laid can be burned like wood and maybe they should

the sadest songs are made like this a shotgun rifle set to miss if we bite our tongues and hold our breath long enuff we might taste the rest a wishfull knife kills the fall and a mouthfull of courage will end it all and sometimes that's just the way it ends....

not every story's sad
some aren't even good some don't end at all but most end like they should.
