"An Endless Flow"

You're still alive, but older Now the nights are gettin' colder The jukebox in the corner still plays the same old song

You've had enough of cryin'
The game's up, love's been dying Too many times you've tried once more you're proven wrong

Observing all the rules broken careless just by fools but still love's so much more than a transient caprice (so hold on to your dreams)

Cause love's an endless flow
that leaves no afterglow
to the beauty of our life
far away where passion's rife Come stay with me tonight
let us keep the flame alight
Til the morning goes to show
I'll never let you go...

She might come like a shower or in the wee small hours Just wait until you've seen the final curtain fall

No, it's not an illusion in spite of your confusion your heart's still beatin' and one day you'll hear the call

They're playing different games simply interchanging names But they will never find what you bear in your mind
(so hold on to your dreams)

to the beauty of our life
far away where passion's rife
Come stay with me tonight
let us keep the flame alight
Til the morning goes to show
I'll never let you go...
