That New Year's Evening saw a star
We watched the fireworks afar Your soft warm hand caressed my skin we walked on ice that was too thin

The sparkling rain of light above once more I promised you my love all that was pure and good and true so careless thrown away by you

That night we were waiting on the shore for a light that shines no more Yes, we were falling like the stars
too much gravitiy on Mars

Feel my heartbeat
Feel my heartbeat
Break my heart again
Break my heart again

Of all the promises you made like coloured flags on a parade flying against an April sky How could I know the end was nigh?

You left me out there in the rain as our love went down the drain all of your little selfish lies my faith in you was my demise!

That night we were waiting on the shore
for a light that shines no more
Yes, we were falling like the stars
too much gravitiy on Mars

Feel my heartbeat
Feel my heartbeat
Break my heart again
Break my heart again

From everything to nothing in no time at all

Why can't you just come with me before the bitter end Maybe we pretend We'd have a second chance How I wished we'd had a chance to start again with our romance...

That night we were waiting on the shore
for a light that shines no more
Yes, we were falling like the stars:
Too much gravity on Mars!

Feel my heartbeat
Feel my heartbeat
Break my heart again
Break my heart again

Don't break my heart again
Don't...
