As the autumn wind blows hard in crafing devastation
I was not prepared to find fate in a state of rage Love once seemed so strong to me, promising salvation
another Tragedie d'amour appearing on life's stage
And again he hears the raven's cry...

I'm strucked down without warning with your words like cyanide
She left me in the morning but forever I will ride
And forever I ride...

Suddenly I'm lost inside tremendous aberration Songs that used to make me glad now make me wanna cry
Restlessly I'm walking empty streets up to the station Standing there in silence as the trains keep passing by
And the turns his face towards the sky...

The stars fade in the dawning:
But the door's still opened wide
And still I am adorning, but forever I will ride
And forever I ride...

In love from the first time that I saw you and the fire in you eyes Take me to your sea of flowers Hold me as the wind shakes the rye

Lady of the Lake: I long to be with you Burning streams like ours cannot disband
The mist it spreads your name in early morning dew
Forever shall you be Queen of the Land Incense leaving trails of smoke
A vision of us fasting our hands Angels laying siege to my heart and I shall not longer withstand

Ladyof the Lake: I long to be with you
This love of ours will never ever end May the silver moon make all our dreams come true

Forever shall you be Queen of the Land

Hear the song of the waves Storm's calling up the thunder and light
A premature grave overgrown by black lilies of night Hekate arise!
Bring back the love of my life!

Rain falls down, it soaks my cloak on this cold grey morning
I missed the last traing that could have me taken back to you!
There's no use in staying here waiting for the dawning
The fool just saddles up again as if he always knew and again he hears the raven's cry
