As Im walking down yesterdays lane past the houses and homes of my life deserted and empty no lights in the windows at night its all quiet

Ive been searching in all of these rooms rattling at closed doors and cryin but those years have been fading in time like a book thats been never read twice

Goddamn I havent seen before call me stupid, call me blind a prospect of what might have been unnervingly entering my mind Listening to Bruce all night long as hes driving away in a stolen car down the road ride by night down the highways and byways of time

Strange but I seem to be back again
from these restless years
It may comes as a surprise
but Im still here
Different than I thought I am
no more prey to blind fear Im back again
from being departed, my friend
(He's back again)

Wondering why everyone just walked away left all fucked up and one fine day acting in very strange ways I couldnt find the right words to say

But now I see part of it was my fault each romance coming to a grinding halt when you lose yourself in someone else instead of cutting your own path, my friend

Rewrite the story of my life

Forgive and forget if you can No more dyin for you under your balcony blue been there, done that too many times Yes, I can live on top of the mountain Its not forsaken at all there with you
Me and you
Yes weve opened the door to a new world

Strange but I seem to be back again
from these restless years
It may comes as a surprise
but Im still here
Different than I thought I am
no more prey to blind fear
Im back again
from being departed, my friend
(He's back again)

Strange but I seem to be back again
from these restless years
It may comes as a surprise
but Im still here
Different than I thought I am
no more prey to blind fear
Im back again
(He's back again)

Strange but I seem to be back again
from these restless years
Sure it comes as a surprise Stay here, stay near Stronger than I thought I am forget about the tears Im back again no more being departed, my friend
