It's all brand new
But nothing seems real today
Your looking for proof
But no one is listening
Take another look inside the workings of your mind
Is the life you searching for leaving you behind?
What are you living for?

All that you wanted
All that you dreamed of has been told
You took it for granted
All that glitters is not gold

I've been here before
I've seen it a thousand times
So what is the point?
Your credit has been denied
Take another look before the anger leaves you blind
The glory you are craving is it eating you inside?
What are we living for?

All that you wanted
All that you dreamed of has been told
You took it for granted
All that glitters is not gold

I've been watching you for some time my friend
I don't think I can take it

All that you wanted
All that you dreamed of has been told
You took it for granted
All that glitters...
That glitters is not gold
