So you cannot lift a spirit that has turned to lead
Or shine a light in shadow when the batteries are dead
Or fly like a bird over all the works of man Or always think of the perfect words but you do the best you can

Nothing seems as easy as it did when you were young Myths may be invincible, but we are only strong Strong like a memory, strong like a willow in the wind
Strong as you'll ever be, you will always need to bend

And if you feel the weight of the world
Put your mind at ease little Hercules

There are times when being a grown-up gets to be too much
And your sense of humor seems to vanish in the crush
Of the daily nine to nine that keeps your family alive You're just putting in your time does anyone really go home at five?

You've made a life where no one ever tells you what to do
Now the only tyrant that you're working for is you It's never easy to keep all the promises you make But no one's gonna get you fired if you'd just give yourself a brake

And if you feel the weight of the world
Put your mind at ease little Hercules
'Cause there's so much on your shoulders
But you know it's a breeze little Hercules

Or shine a light in shadow when the batteries are dead

And if you feel the weight of the world
Put your mind at ease little Hercules
'Cause there's so much on your shoulders
But you know it's a breeze little Hercules
And when you feel the weight of the world
Put your mind at ease little Hercules, little Hercules

Little Hercules
Little Hercules
