

Trisha Yearwood

"Those Words We Said"

Visit "Those Words We Said" on MotoLyrics.com

I left home with nothing but a few tears in my eyes
Now I'm halfway down the interstate past Highway 99 It's just me and one good wiper blade up against the rain

And I still hear the echoes of those bitter words we said
I could drive a million miles and never drive them from my head
Those words we said

No matter how I try, I can't get far enough away Every sad song on my radio sounds like it's custom made
By some Devil on my shoulder that keeps whispering in my ears

And I still hear the echoes of those bitter words we said
I could drive a million miles and never drive them from
my head
Those words that wounded like an arrow to the heart
And keep me drivin', drivin'

And I still hear the echoes of those bitter words we said
I could drive a million miles
And never drive them from my head
Those words we said, those words we said

Visit Trisha Yearwood page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.