i thought that i meant more than this, more than wasted time. how could you be so cold? but did you ever really know?
you should have known enough to see how your words were seen, and courage to come clean.
did you know what this meant to me?

you left me
on our day

and to this hate don't hang on i'll be forgiving you though our time know is gone closure makes things new if you wanted just a friend that could have been enough for me please make up your mind don't lead me on and see.

see how your lies affect my world and fuel depression that you bring
but this feels like just empty complaining.
did you know?

now i can breathe
i'm letting go know i can feel my heart is free.
letting you go,
the smartest thing i've done is to let my past go.

(it's in the past, time to let it go) anger takes a part of us and blindly we can never know but forgiveness brings you closure though the process can be hard to go through
