My father Michael is a genius
He sees this world the way no one can
He brought me up and he shaped my mind
At the tender youthful age of 9

He said don't take this for the way it is You better watch out son when you give in Before you know it the friends you trust
Will have stabbed you in the back he said

If you wanna steal you better learn how to lie
If you wanna live you better not fear how you die
Heaven and hell are just a myth
So you better pay attention to this moment

If you wanna steal you better learn how to lie
If you wanna live you better not fear how you die
Heaven and hell are just a myth
So you better pay attention to this moment

The fine line between genius and insanity
Is one he often treads so patiently
While pigs and bulls will always try to lock the door

A system built to perpetuate
Pushers pushin', dealers dealin' with they can't escape
I got kids and homes to protect
There's no living in this wage that they have set

If you wanna steal you better learn how to lie
If you wanna live you better not fear how you die
Heaven and hell are just a myth
So you better pay attention to this moment

If you wanna steal you better learn how to lie
If you wanna live you better not fear how you die
Heaven and hell are just a myth
So you better pay attention to this moment

Sometimes when my apathy creeps on up from behind me

It reminds me why I moved my TV
Out of the room where I make love in case I might just look up
And see the sky is falling from above, see it falling from above

If you wanna steal you better learn how to lie
If you wanna live you better not fear how you die
Heaven and hell are just a myth
So you better pay attention to this moment

If you wanna steal you better learn how to lie
If you wanna live you better not fear how you die
Heaven and hell are just a myth
So you better pay attention to this moment

If you wanna steal you better learn how to lie
If you wanna live you better not fear how you die
Heaven and hell are just a myth
So you better pay attention to this moment
Oh yeah
