"We Are the Lost"

Have you ever been alone? Transparency
In the middle of millions of others but still somehow unseen
She is across the aisle, he's on the floor above
Your neighbor and every prisoner Each station filled with static, broadcasting nothing but noise
Deep inside of each of us

We are the lost, the dead and gone, the seldom seen
We are the helpless and the hopeless, that no one wants to see
We are the lost, the dead and gone, the seldom seen
We are the helpless and the hopeless, that no one wants to see

Have you ever been drowned? Transparency
In the water with millions of others, but still somehow
unseen
She is across the aisle, he's on the floor above
Your neighbor and every stranger
Each station filled with static, broadcasting nothing but
noise

We are the lost, the dead and gone, the seldom seen
We are the helpless and the hopeless, that no one wants to see
We are the lost, the dead and gone, the seldom seen
We are the helpless and the hopeless, that no one wants to Outside we are alive, where is the line, the great divide?

Outside we are alive, where is the line, the great divide?

Are we dead?
(No)
Are we gone?
(No)
Are we dead?
(No)

Are we gone?
(No)

Are we dead?
Are we moving on?
We may fail to see change but we're never gonna fade away

We are the lost, the dead and gone, the seldom seen
We are the helpless and the hopeless that no one wants to see
We are the lost, the dead and gone, the seldom seen
We are the helpless and the hopeless that no one wants to see

We will be seen, we will be seen, we will be seen
We will be seen, we will be seen, we will be seen
We will be seen, we will be seen
