I just want some of that sun
I just want some of that sun
I just want some of that sunshine.

One step into the lion's den, nerves are steady, slowly settling.
oh, the teeth and persistent smiles.
The walls are marked like a temper thinned, but still no sign of where the light lets in.
All this for my
My piece of mind.

I just want some of that sun
I just want some of that sun
I just want some of that sunshine.

Surrendered to a filament arrest, i devise the newest alias.
I'm not feeling myself.

I just want some of that sun
I just want some of that sun
I just want some of that sunshine.

I just want some of that sun
I just want some of that sun
I just want some of that sunshine.

And they'll say there's too much
There's too much talk of the weather, but i can do without the guild of voices.
I can do without the guild, the guilt.

I just want some of that sun
I just want some of that sun
I just want some of that sunshine.(x3)
