If you don't want the wrong kind of message, don't send the same kind to me
Your instinct to survive won't work when you just close your eyes
Illustrations hide a different view
Of what this club will come to be You've soured all of this for me

Count on your pipe dreams hitting a wall
Then when you're leaving count on believing
All of your hype, then hold my calls
The corporation, reeducation
Now, you're one step away
Now, and that's too close to take

If you don't want the wrong kind of message don't
send the same kind to me
Your instinct to survive won't work when you just close
your eyes
Machinations we're behind the truth
You've worked out such a tight routine
Your actions power the machine
The words are never useless when times have changed among us
The sun is shining on a brand new day
