Imagine if you can, a cold and barren land
Where those who live there never see
And they'll remain there endlessly, forever and forever

They try and try in vain to vanquish or relieve the pain but end up cutting 'cross their veins in order to insure that pain returns no more

Now somewhere far away, beneath the sunlight rays
A land of peace that we have found
We shall become euphoria bound in the land of our sanctuary

This is the place of our sanctuary
This is the place, this is the way
No one can take us from our sanctuary
And this is the place we will stay

For those who cross the bridge of fate
And those who only sit and wait
Will share within an endless hate
The torment of the closing gate

Which opens not, and signifies
Those who lived and those who died
And "His" whose soul rose to the sky
In glorious wonder to their eyes

I smiled sadly and I prayed That maybe today, I would see my darkness melting away

I have passed thru the great, iron gates and I have seen all of the fates
Of those who tried but succeeded too late

Could it be, that my life is just a dream
Unreal though it seems for me
I can laugh I have seen
I have seen
I have seen

I have seen that my life is just a dream
