Why do I feel like walking away
When time after time you ask me to stay
Why is it we always argue and fight
We're going in circles and you think you're right

You say that its you who knows about love
You really believe that you've been sent from above
But I'm here to tell you its down to wire
It feels like we've gone from the pan straight to the fire

When push comes to shove
You pushed your way out of love
Now you've lost the prize
Love has cut you down to size
You cheated at the game
Things will never be the same
You broke the rules of love
Now push has come to shove
When love turns to hate, well that seems to be your fate
So stay right where you are, cause now you've gone too far

You say that its you who knows about love
You really believe that you've been sent from above
But I'm here to tell you its down to the wire
It feels like we've gone from the pan straight to the fire

When push comes to shove
You pushed your way out of love
Now you've lost the prize
Love has cut you down to size
You cheated at the game
Things will never be the same
You broke the rules of love
Now push has come to shove
When love turns to hate, well that seems to be your fate
So stay right where you are, cause now you've gone too far
