"The Problem With Your Daughter"

I have come to speak with you about your daughter.
She's no girl, she's a woman sir.
If she wants to go and see the world she oughta.
You have kept her here for twenty years alone.
But I'll have you know she's fully grown,
And she sure knows just what she wants, my god.

If you won't allow her leaving I must take her.
I'm seeing red and I'd kill you dead
If you tried to keep her here, no you can't make her.
You imagine that she's just as pure as ever.
But I have been known to shake her bones
Yeah we've been known to shudder and moan together.

I am not the problem. You are.

I love her. She loves me. I thought you should know.
