"Crude Sunlight"

careful, they think i'm sleeping if i could just trick this machine oh god, who are they and what does it mean no i can't let them touch me and i can't let them see crack in the wall
the only place i can crawl for safety i'm crawling inside but i've still got to know why am i afraid to go had i slipped into the wrong door even though it felt so fine crude sunlight rolling through my window telling me it's not your time and still the voices calling c'mon
crack in the wall
the only place i can crawl to safety when i was dead three headless voices that said they loved me such a love was blinding there i can't fall and the floor is the wall i'm scaling gonna give them all the slip i've had it

i've got to abandon ship never gonna go back there
the last minute
shivering under a wave another lonely seasons slave
i've got to abandon it let me start all over again this couldn't be the end there's something i've got to say
