

Los Tukas

"The Ballad of Daykitty"

Visit "The Ballad of Daykitty" on MotoLyrics.com

Where'd the kitty come from?
And where'd the kitty go?
The kitty's always hungry,
I told the kitty no
So the kitty had to ramble,
She had to roam
Where'd the kitty come from?
Where did the kitty go?

Now Hector was the son
Of a mountain lion
She heard him crying,
She followed him in
And she became the apple
Of my eye
But when Hector couldn't love her
My Daykitty said goodbye

She belonged to another
Family up the street
I knew they couldn't love her
Even half as much as I
I love the kitty in the morning
Love her every night
The day she left me,
I hung my head and cried

Where'd the kitty come from?
And where'd the kitty go?
The kitty's always hungry,
I told the kitty no
Did she have to ramble?
Did she have to roam?
Where'd she come from?
Where did the kitty go?

You know she returned
The very next day
We took her to the doctor,
The doctor did say
The kitty weren't a woman

No the kitty was a man
Took him home,
He ate a whole can
Now he and Hector are friends
I think he's gonna stay
I think he really loves us,
All he wanna do is play

And you should see him sleeping
In my lovers arms
I know you'd wanna keep him
But Daykitty is ours

Now where'd the kitty come from?
And where'd the kitty go?
The kitty's always hungry,
I told the kitty no
So the kitty had to ramble,
The kitty had to roam
Where'd the kitty come from?
Where did the kitty go?

Wherever he came from,
Now he's got a home
If he ever leaves again,
I'll be home

Visit Los Tukas page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.