Lets erase the pain inside
It slowly starts to rain
Getting used to falling down
With nothing left to say

There's too many places
That you remind me of
There's too many faces
To be the only one

I can only defend us once
Through the crowded day
I can hear you in stereo and thoughts along the way

That's the face of a fading sun
It slowly starts to rain
Get the feeling of falling down
With nothing left to waste

There's too many faces
That you remind me of
There's too many places
To be the only one

And it feels like
We're moving up
We couldn't see tomorrow
And all it holds in wait for us is trouble
For all we know impossible
To know for sure
If we will make it
Through another day.
