I know sometimes it's hard to believe it
But love's been following you
From where I stand I'm able to see it
And love's been following you

All through the stormy night
Didn't you see the light
Goodness and mercy
Right there behind you
Love's been following you

Some days your heart just couldn't be colder
But love's been following you
All you have learned just makes you feel older
But love's been following you

You think that no one cares
Still love is always there
He would go anywhere
Just to find you
Love's been following you

Love has been following you
Love's been following you
Love has been following you
Following you, following you

Somehow the road just seems to get longer
But love's been following you
Wait for the One who will make you stronger
'Cause love's been following you

Wherever you go from here
Run far away from fear
Keep one thing very near
And believe it's true
Love's been following you

Love's been following you
Love's been following you

Love's been following you

Love's been following you
Love's been following you
Love's been following you
Love's been following you
