Fly low ye carion crow

Seize my body for the dead I owe

Drop me high into the depths below

For the things I've seen no one else should know

It's just you and me and my rib-caged brain

We polish the brass and we dust the pain

And we lay down fallow like slaveless chians

And they call us sick as though they're all so sane

So fly low ye carion crow

And seize my body for to free my soul

And drop me high into the depths below

For the things I've seen no one else should know

And what speak you of a love so bold?

And if song could sing, no word could hold

But I warn you now of an end foretold

And a life long waiting for a death below

So fly low ye carion crow

And seize my body for it lives no more

And drop me high into the depths below

For the things I've seen no one else should know

For the things I've seen no one else should know

For the things I've seen no one else should know
