Somewhere in a sunset room
Oh, somewhere in a sunset room

We'll share our new religion
Dine on rose and apricot
And we won't count the hours or days
And we'll dance until we can't

Ah, somewhere in a sunset room
It's like a portal to another world
We have no need for clothes or shoes

And without words
Convince me you're not counterfeit
And I'll show you what I'm made of

We'll have breakfast of chocolate and velvet
Brush off the dust of sleepy memory
We've awakened in a sunset room
We own, we own the sun and the moon

Oh, somewhere in a sunset room
We're craving winter, we've lost the afternoon
We're dreaming on clouds of saffron silk
Bathed in a golden light, defying gravity

Oh, so completely
Oh, oh, so completely
Oh, oh, oh

Oh, somewhere in a sunset room
It's like a portal to another world
We have no need, we have no need for clothes or shoes

I'll show you
Yes, I'll show you what I'm made of
Yes, I will
I'm gonna show you what I'm made of
Yes, I will
Yes, I will
I'm gonna show you what I'm made of
