"Welcome Home"

Her letter said in three weeks
She'll be coming down from Sydney
And if it wasn't asking too much
Could she spend a few days with me
But it's miserable this time of year
Don't visit, you'll regret it
But if you must insist on coming
Then I guess I'll have to wear it

We can sit around all afternoon
Inside this tiny café
Surround ourselves with people who
Are lonely too, but nowadays
This lifestyle's wearing thin
And I can't foresee a change
Is this hopelessness a consequence
Of living in this place?

Do you remember when we were happy?
I want to smile again
Do you remember when we were happy?
I want to smile again
Smile in Melbourne again

Welcome home
You've been gone far too long
Welcome home
You've been gone far too long
Welcome home
