

Twothirtyeight "There Is No Dana"

Visit "There Is No Dana" on MotoLyrics.com

You spell love a different way, oh, God it hurts I've learned to read the way you do and Everybody has a story here, so who came in and twisted you
There's a song it's haunting tune, convincing you

There's a song, it's calling us to rest again
Just a stringed bead in your catalog of broken hearts
I am happy to be just to be a page in a chapter of your book
You always read the heart inside me like

A book and it made me smile
The eyes will speak words when
The lips are standing still
But there is no Dana here at all

Visit Twothirtyeight page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.