Words by Shawn Mullins

A young man sits by the riverside watching the sunset over the blue ridge
And the mountain laurel reminds him of his bride so he flings himself over the burning bridge

You and I together till we die
We dream of a place that we used to know but we cannot go with you girl in this Everchanging world living learning loving you is all I have to know all I have to know

It seems sometimes that I've lost my way
The sweet sweet sound of the lost and found makes my soul rise
And the nursery rhymes of my childhood days Reminds me of a girl I used to know I used to love oh I used to love

You and I together till we die
Watching the sun set over the blue ridge
And the mountain laurel she picks reminds her of a guy
So she flings a bouquet over the burning bridge

You and I together till we die
but we cannot go with you girl in this Everchanging world living learning loving you is all I have to know
All I have to know
