"She was my baby"

Damn right she was

"But she put me down"

Oh well, now I'm moving up and I'm moving out

[Verse 1]

And I, still sleep on one side of the bed

And I, can't sleep so I'm tired instead

Trying to, set free what's wired to my head

Short circuit circulating with each breath

And, she left with a convincing stride

Spread them wings effortless and let them fly

Glide, like, there was never any drama

And I won't watch when the wind gets calmer

I'm gonna find my spot many mornings after

Contact lost so I can sort through the data

Wonder what you're up to since the departure

Hope we both know to play it smarter

I'ma have a harder shell to crack

So when the walls all crumble, I'm numb to the impact

Six pack flowing through bubbling veins

In the winter they will simmer in a troublesome gain

The future without me, that's not one in the same

You didn't see a future with me, not one in the same

So move on...
