

Tyketto

"End of the Summer Days"

Visit "End of the Summer Days" on MotoLyrics.com

Sun's been down since you've been gone, and I don't know why or for how long The same old record played I've been trying to move along, but I keep on singing the same old song
The end of the summer days, end of the summer days

I can still hear you laugh, with your hair blowing back in my car
I can still feel your curves, when we danced in that boardwalk bar
And I can still taste your lips from that one last stolen kiss
By the firelight
Won't be nothing so cold as this beach in the winter time

(chorus)

(Solo)

One day you just felt a change and slipped away Maybe it was never meant to be Now the sound of footsteps makes me hope and pray you're coming back to me

There's a warm breeze that's blowing as the shadows go tumbling by
And it's picking up sand, and that must be what's in my eye

(chorus repeats 2x...)

End of the summer days, oohh

Visit Tyketto page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.

